S.Q. 6 Ordered To Pay $2.1 Million In Damages

GEORGE JACKSON MURDER CASE RULING MOCKERY OF JUSTICE

The wall pictured above is the wall that Comrades GEORGE JACKSON (top insert) and JOHNNY SPANH (bottom insert) were supposedly going to scale in an alleged escape attempt from San Quentin prison. However, in the current trial of the San Quentin Six it is becoming even more obvious that this "escape attempt" was a state-inspired setup to kill author/revolutionary Jackson, a Field Marshal in the Black Panther Party.

San Rafael, Calif. - The "blind" scales of justice were knocked out of shape last week by the heavy blow of a Marin County Superior Court judge who ruled that five of the San Quentin 6 must pay $2.1 million in damages for alleged crimes for which they are currently on trial.

The vicious ruling, unprecedented in both its timing and its implications, is clearly designed to undermine the defense of the six Black and Brown prison activists and prejudice the jury in favor of the prosecution's case, which appears weaker and weaker as the celebrated trial proceeds.

The $2.1 million figure to be paid to the families of three prison guards slain during the August 21, 1971, set-up and assassination of Black Panther Party Field Marshal George Jackson was imposed last Thursday, October 21, by Marin County Superior Court Judge David Menary, Jr.

Menary arbitrarily found five of the Six - Willie Tate, Hugo Pinell, David Johnson, Fleeta Drumgo, and Black Panther Party member Johnny Larry Span - in default for failing to answer the 1972 lawsuits filed by the slain guards' families. Luis Talamantes, the sixth defendant, is said to have filed a response to the suits and thus was not included in the ruling.

The effects of the ruling upon the jury of 11 Whites and one Black in the ongoing trial here is incalculable, and its implications for other pa-

Ford Replies To Richmond Black Cop Bias Charge

(Richmond, Calif.) — Ollie S. Glover, president of the Guardians of Justice (Black cops) and co-founder of the National Black Officers' Association, has received a reply to his letter to President Gerald Ford. (See THE BLACK PANTHER, September 25, 1974.)

Edgar Morgan, director of the Office of Congressional Affairs of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, asked to respond to Brother Glover's letter to President Ford, informed Brother Glover that his charge of employment discrimination against the Richmond Police Department "is now pending investigation."

Brother Glover had urged Ford to direct the proper members of his Cabinet to comply with antidiscrimination guidelines "as set forth in the Constitution, and as set forth in legislation acted on by Congress."

Morgan indicates in his letter that the EEO office in San Francisco had received and deferred Sgt. Glover's charge of racial discrimination to the California Fair Employment Practices Commission, and that on September 5, the state agency having waived its jurisdiction, this agency asserted federal jurisdiction. Your charge, which has been assigned File No. TSP-0045, is now pending investigation."

Morgan also told Brother Glover that he had sent Glover's letter to Ford to the San Francisco District Office of the EEO Commission. "For inclusion in your continuing case file."

7,000 BLACK POLICE VOW TO PROTECT BLACK COMMUNITY IN BUSING CRISIS

J. Alfred Smith Honored At Boston N.B.P.A. Convention

(Boston, Mass.) — Seven thousand Black cops, coming from the 50 states at the Union and representing nearly 60 Black officers' organizations, have declared their unified intention to enforce the law of the land as regards the school busing of children in the face of White police cooperation and non-vigilance with anti-busing elements in communities throughout the country, most notably Boston, Massachusetts, and Louisville, Kentucky.

The decision came at the conclusion of the 3rd Annual Conference of the National Black Police Association (NBPA), held here from October 10 to 14, at the Sheraton Boston Hotel. Close to 11,000 male and female police and uniformed Black officers and their friends participated in the week-long events, that were highlighted by a Salute to the popular comedian/activist Dick Gregory on his 43rd birthday and a leadership award to Pastor J. Alfred Smith of East Oakland's Allen Temple Baptist Church.

Responding to open and public calls by White police organizations to their members and the White community to oppose busing and therefore violate the law of the land, the NBPA, sparked by Brother Shelby Larier, Jr., president of the Louisville Black Police Officers Organization, made it national policy for all its affiliates to defend the law by protecting Black children and the Black community from violent, racist interference in busing.

During the violent disturbances in Louisville, Kentucky, against busing, White police officers displayed anti-busing bumper stickers on their cars and motorcycles during the demonstrations and the president of the Fraternal Order of Police, representing White police officers, publicly called for the "cooperation of police and citizens in working for a common goal — that is, not oppose busing."

The Legion 5 Leadership Award presentation to Pastor J. Alfred Smith, spokesperson of the Oakland Community Coalition Against Racism, was made by Officer Ray Clark, president of the Oakland Black Officers Association and Information Officer of Region 5 of the National Black Officers Association. Pastor Smith was on hand to receive the award.

Accepting the award at the grand banquet on the evening of Monday, October 13, "for struggle against race/sex discrimination and supporting Black policemen in exposing police racism within the Oakland, California, Police Department," Pastor Smith said:

"To the President of this august body, to the head of Region 5 and to Ray Clark: The poet has said, 'to every man is given a day/And his work for the day/And once and no more he's given to travel this way/That's awaiting a work that only his hands can do/And so, if he falters a post in the music shall fail.'"

"As I accept this award tonight, I want to say that I was simply trying to do my work for the day. It was Descartes, the French philosopher, who said, 'I think, therefore I am.' But it was West African Ashanti philosophy that said 'The group is, therefore I am.' So, as I accept this award, I accept it in the context of West African philosophy. That is, on behalf of a coalition of community people that make up our group that is dedicated to uprooting insidious racism in Oakland. On behalf of all of them I 'Thank You,' and I want to say that this great occasion inspires me today."

"I've told me that the little good that I do shall never tip the lowering scale where justice hangs in balance. I never said that it could. But I am prejudiced CONTINUOUS PART 2

Fallen Comrade

BRUCE "DEACON"
WASHINGTON

Assassinated
October 26, 1974

Brother "Deacon" Washington died on October 26, 1974, as a result of gunshot wounds he received in the back while he was attempting to protect and save the lives of children at a free dance being held at the Oakland Community Learning Center. It is widely believed that Oakland police prompted the incident which resulted in the shooting of Deacon. Deacon was the father of two young children himself and had an immense love for and sense of dedication to our Black youth.

At the Community Learning Center, Deacon was among those responsible for making the Center a haven not only for our youth but for the entire community. His death was a result of a direct police effort to destroy the Learning Center. But the fact that this beautiful, community-controlled institution is still developing and flourishing today is a testament to the fact that Deacon's spirit and devotion has not been forgotten. Long Live the Spirit of Brother "Deacon" Washington! Long Live the People's Struggle!

ALL POWER TO THE PEOPLE

This week THE BLACK PANTHER prints Part 2 of the sworn testimony of Thomas Stewart which exposes the structure and functions of the ultrarightist Legion of Justice in Chicago, Illinois.

Here is part of the growing mountain of evidence of big city police and the U.S. military creating and using fascist gangs to violently attack progressives and the property of progressive organizations — committing burglaries and provoking confrontations between progressive organizations and the police. These coverups originally appeared in The Militant.

PART 2

A: When my trial for the church raid came up I told Mr. Sutton that I wanted to testify in my own behalf, to tell exactly what happened, what I knew, that fact that I wasn't there. And he said I couldn't do that.

Q: Was there any conversation at or about this time in connection with your wanting to give testimony that referred to the Legion of Justice or his own participation in this thing?

A: At that time the conversation was, as I remember, was that I could not bring anything out about the Legion of Justice because if I testified — if I testified it would come out that he was — Mr. Sutton was involved, and the police involvement, and all the rest of it. And that was another reason that he pointed to the boulder not having to worry about it.

[The following testimony is under cross-examination.]

Q: What did you understand the purpose of the Legion of Justice to be?

A: I understood them to be intelligence gathering, to gather physical documents, membership lists, financial records of subversive organizations.

Q: So that you intended, and you did, gather intelligence against organizations that you thought were harmful to the country?

A: Yes, sir. Not only that I thought were harmful but what others directed me to do.

Q: Well, talking about Mr. Sutton did he tell you that the YSA Young Socialist Alliance was an organization harmful to the United States of America?

A: Yes, sir.

Q: What, in particular, did he tell you about that organization?

A: That they were a communist organization, they were revolutionaries, and were causing chaos on the campuses, and that they were, in general, a danger to our country.

Q: Do you believe that today?

A: Yes, sir.

Q: Now you said others told you things about the YSA. Who were those other people?

A: Members of the Subversive Intelligence Unit.

Q: What did they tell you about the YSA?

A: Basically the same thing that Mr. Sutton told me.

Black civil rights groups had protested the plan because of the department's failure to consult the Black community when drawing up the program.

HARASSED QUEENS BLACK FAMILY GUARDED BY BLACK COPS

(New York, N.Y.) — As members of the 5,000-strong Black police officers' organization of New York completed the first week of guarding the firebombed home of the Spencer family in Bayside, Queens, District Attorney Nicholas Ferraro has finally pledged a full investigation of the racist harassment of the Black family that has continued since June, 1974, in the predominantly White community.

The decision of the Black police officers to guard the Spencer man guarding their home beaten and shot at, a racist mob picketing outside shouting insults, their children followed home by those charged with a bombing but acquitted by an all-White jury, hate messages by phone and mail, and on and on.

On August 29, Tony Spencer came home to find garbage strewn on his lawn. He called the police and began removing it to the street, when a jeering racist mob of about 50 gathered and threatened him. Spencer went into his house and returned to his porch with a gun in his hand. At that point the police arrived. One cop grabbed Spencer and tried to take the gun away, causing it to go off and wounding Spencer and his wife.

The result was that Spencer, the victim of racist injustice, was taken to jail and charged with "reckless endangerment," "illegal possession of a weapon" and "molestation." Meanwhile, the racist, threatening and intimidating mob and those who actually used weapons against Spencer were free to roam the streets.

At Spencer's preliminary hearing the courtroom was packed with supporters, and a rally demanding the dropping of all charges against Tony Spencer was held on the courthouse steps. Representatives of New York City's Black policemen were also participants in the rally. The newly formed, 5,000-strong Grand Council of Guardians, Inc., combines Black officers from the New York Police Department, Black officers of the New York

The Spencer family, Tony, his wife Glenda, and their three sons, have been through a grueling experience with a Queens group called HOAR — "Return Our American Rights" — that models itself after the Boston anti-Black, terror group with the same initials leading the White opposition to buying in that city.

Twice the Spencers narrowly escaped injury since they bought the new home about 16 months ago. In June, 1974, and again on New Year's Eve, 1975, the house was firebombed and extensively damaged. A third bomb was also discovered at the house, undetonated, but bearing a note which summed up the reason for it all: "Nigger be warned. We leave time. We will get you. Your first born first. Viva Boston, EKK."

Since the bombings the Spencers have been subjected to more than 30 racist outbursts, a police-

Oakland Community School Holds Successful Fund-Raiser

Sponsored by the staff and parents of the model, elementary level school in East Oakland, the party lasted for almost eight hours as the invited guests bunched, boogied and hustled until the early hours of Sunday morning. The highly successful evening was highlighted with delicious hors d'oeuvres and an overflowing airburst bar.

Dymally Calls For People's Economic Coalition

(Long Beach, Calif.) — The urgent need for a new economic coalition of people-power groups to ensure that citizens get a fair share of a smaller economic pie was recently called for by California Lt. Governor Marvin Dymally.

Addressing the First Annual Black Leadership Conference here on October 18, Lt. Governor Dymally pointed out:

"Control of the world's economy has slipped away from this country. This will have a dramatic effect on the way we live, particularly for the poor, minorities, women and young people."

In the past the nation has been able to count on an over-expanding economy to pull it out of depressions and recessions, the Black lieutenant governor told several hundred listeners. "The country was becoming richer every year, and we expected to share in the increased riches," he added.

"But the United States no longer calls the tune for everyone else to dance to," Dymally added. "Some nations have discovered they can do anything they want to with their products. Others will follow their example. They will bring even higher prices, shortages, further recession and intensification of all the ills we have," he warned.

The only answer for the mass of citizens will be the formation of a New Economic Coalition "to insure that the rich would be taxed as heavily as the poor, that jobs would be available for all, and that those without jobs would have adequate food and shelter," Dymally concluded.

"The New Coalition would have to resemble the old civil rights movement in many ways," he said. It would have to be interracial, with Whites joining with non-Whites "to press for the common goal."

"Without this New Coalition, things may get pretty grim," Dymally added. □

Busing To Prison

(San Francisco, Calif.) — The United Prisoners Union (UPU) is now forming a caravan to transport people to California prisons so they may visit their friends and loved ones. The next scheduled trip will be on November 1, 1976, leaving from the UPU office, located at 1899 Oak St. in San Francisco, at 7:00 a.m.

GEORGIA D.A. ATTEMPTS TO UNSEAT STATE REPRESENTATIVE HOSEA WILLIAMS

(Atlanta, Ga.) - The Fulton County district attorney is attempting to convict Rev. Hosea Williams, SCLC leader and Georgia state representative, on felony charges resulting from an alleged traffic violation, which could remove him from his seat in the Georgia state legislature.

Last month, Rev. Williams was arrested for the 100th time in his 18 years as a civil rights activist for allegedly driving while his license was revoked. Earlier this year his license was revoked permanently by the Superior Court of Fulton County and three White witnesses have testified they have seen Williams driving a car. Although Atlanta police have in a definite, organized conspiracy to imprison and destroy" Hosea Williams and that "to try and convict Representative Williams of a felony on a traffic charge is ridiculous; yet, this whole matter is very serious."

The Committee is preparing charge file. "Morgan's letter is dated October 7, 1975.

In a companion development, Sgt. Glover has received a letter from Malaka J. Steen, chief of the Civil Rights Branch of the Office of Revenue Sharing of the U.S. Treasury Department. Steen states in his letter, dated October 14, 1975, that it is to advise Brother Glover "that the Office of Revenue Sharing is in the process of gathering data relative to your complaint," and assures Brother Glover that, "We will take appropriate action, if necessary, to ensure that our Rules and Regulations governing the acceptance of revenue sharing funds are followed."

In a letter to the Office of Revenue Sharing, Sgt. Glover had detailed examples of discrimination he has suffered and pointed out that the city of Richmond has over the past year received more than $4 million in revenue sharing funds.

He charged that in view of the police department's discriminatory practices, its continued receipt of revenue sharing monies is unlawful and requested an investigation and the initiation of administrative proceedings to suspend all revenue sharing funding to the city of Richmond until such time as it is in compliance with revenue sharing guidelines.

The Richmond Guardians of Justice filed a lawsuit against the city of Richmond on March 5, 1975, charging unlawful racial discrimination. The Guardians of Justice have also joined the Oakland Black Officers Association, the National Black Officers Association, the International Association of Women Police (U.S., U.R. and Canada) and 10 individuals in a $20 million class action lawsuit against officials of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) and the U.S. attorney general.

This suit charges that the plaintiffs, along with other members of the class have been discriminated against in employment on the grounds of race and sex by their respective police departments, which receive federal funding from LEAA. Such federal funding, the suit points out, is subject to the nondiscrimination guidelines of federal law.

On October 11, the Guardians of Justice, together with the Richmond Black Firefighters Association and Black Businessmen's Association, held a massive picnic rally at Richmond's Kennedy park in which some 1,000 Richmond citizens, primarily Black, participated. The rally was called to express community support for the Black policeman, fireman and businessmen increasingly under attack by the White power structure of the city.

The delicious barbecued chicken and potato salad served free to the assembled crowd was prepared by the catering staff at the Oakland Community Learning Center, and music was supplied by a popular local rhythm and blues post group. □

OUR HEALTH

Medical Care For The Poor?

(New York, N.Y.) - What may be a major step toward providing quality medical care for the poor in America was taken last week by the New York Board of Regents which administers the City College system of the state.

As reported by The New York Times, under the action taken by the Regents, graduates of the City College of New York's Medical School who participate in the six-year biomedical training program would be required to serve for two years in an area of New York City that is short of doctors.

According to spokesmen for the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) and the private Association of American Medical Colleges in Washington, D.C., the Regents' controversial action is the first such taken in the U.S. although the idea has been debated for several years.

The requirement states that each student who fails to "meet his service commitment" will be obligated to reimburse the city and the state up to $25,000 in costs for the free four-year portions of the program.

The obligation clause approved by the Regents also stipulates that students who earn their medical degrees from one of the four medical schools in New York state that take biomedical program graduates would have to spend two years practicing "in an area of physician shortage" in New York City.

In addition, there are 179 students in the biomedical program, 35 of whom are in their third year. The medical schools included in the action are at the State University at Stony Brook, New York University, the University of Rochester, Mount Sinai, and, outside the state, the predominantly Black Meharry Medical College in Nashville, Tennessee, and Howard University in Washington, D.C., as well as the University of Puerto Rico.

Congress is now considering as part of the health manpower bill requirements that medical school graduates serve two-year periods in physician-short areas, but sharp debate exists as to how to establish such requirements.

Reverend HOSEA WILLIAMS
Georgia state representative investigated this accusation and have found no grounds for charges. District Attorney Lewis Slaton managed to get a grand jury to indict Williams.

If convicted, Williams faces a one to five year sentence with no chance for a suspended sentence, probation, or fine. But the most serious implication of this charge is that Williams would be removed from the state legislature.

DEFENSE COMMITTEE

A National Defense Committee to free Reverend Hosea L. Williams has been formed to ward off this latest attack on Black political power. The Committee is headed by Ralph Abernathy, head of the SCLC; Howard Monte, noted Black lawyer; Julian Bond, Georgia state senator; and comedian/activist Dick Gregory.

A statement issued by the National Committee to Free Hosea Williams declares, "There

500 Third World Students March At U. of Mass. To Protest Racist Attacks

(Amherst, Mass.) — A group of at least 500 Third World students at the University of Massachusetts campus here recently participated in a march to protest racist attacks against members of the Third World community in this small New England university town.

In a press release issued by the Black News Service at the university one march participant was quoted as saying, "I have not seen a march with this much enthusiasm and seriousness since the 1960s."

Third World students have documented half a dozen physical assaults on Black students by White students in the past month, in addition to daily verbal assaults and threats.

The most recent incident occurred at a campus bar where two Third World students were assaulted by White students employed as "bouncers" by the university.

The march and rally were called by a group of concerned Black students to demonstrate that these attacks will no longer be tolerated. The students marched from the New Africa House to the administration building.

There, they were addressed by John Bracey, nationally known historian and chairman of the W. E. B. Du Bois Department of Afro-American Studies. Brother Bracey pointed out that Third World students are treated equally when it is time to pay tuition and room fees, so they should be treated equally when trying to use campus facilities.

Students then marched to the bar involved in the most recent incident took place. As they marched they chanted, "Stop the racist attacks" and "Third World students will never be defeated."

Amherst, Massachusetts, is only 100 miles from Boston, the scene of racial violence over forced school busing for the last two years. Many of the students at the university are from the Boston area.

S.A.F.E. Holds Enjoyable Dinner For East Oakland Seniors

(Oakland, Calif.) — The Oakland Community Learning Center's S.A.F.E. (Seniors Against a Fearful Environment) Club held another successful dinner for East Oakland senior citizens here last Saturday, October 25.

Attended by over 50 seniors and held in the Learning Center's spacious cafeteria, a very hearty and delicious meal was served. The menu consisted of baked chicken with stuffing, cranberry sauce, salad, string beans, dessert, and coffee, tea, and punch. Members of the S.A.F.E. Club prepared and served this meal. (See photo above.) The meal was very welcome as most of the seniors came from retirement homes which do not serve meals on the weekends.

Everyone who attended thoroughly enjoyed themselves and appreciated the concerned efforts of the S.A.F.E. Club. (See On The Black page 10.)

BLACKS FILE SUIT AGAINST BOSTON SCHOOL COMMITTEE ELECTION PROCESS

(Boston, Mass.) — Black residents have filed suit in federal court charging that the racist method of electing the school committee cancels out their vote.

According to Community Press Features (CPF), Black residents are angry over the fact that no candidate who has ever finished first in districts where the Black vote is predominant has ever served on the school board. Ten Black voters, including eight parents of children in the public school system, have filed a class action in behalf of themselves and all of the Boston Black community.

The suit is contesting a city-wide election process that effectively negates the power of the Black vote. Boston's city election system divides the city into 22 wards. Two wards are predominantly Black (Roxbury and Dorchester), while five have a significant number of Black resident in them. The remainder are virtually all-White.

In 1970 a Black woman unsuccessfully ran for school committee. She won 7 to 1 in the city's two Black wards, Roxbury and Dorchester, which contain 90 per cent of Boston's Black population but ran ninth in the city-wide election.

The suit also contends that Black people are eliminated from the nomination process as well. School committee candidates gain endorsements, finances, and other support primarily from city employees who make up 10 per cent of Boston's labor force.

Police symbolize war-zone atmosphere of Boston created by racist school situation.

In light of the White backlash, headed by organizations such as BAAE, Massachusetts Citizens Against Forced Busing and others, Black candidates are hard pressed to gain support from city employees or the school department, which is known for its traditionally racist practices. BAAE and other organizations work very hard before school committee elections to arouse racist sentiments and to develop a racist opposition to any change of the present election system.

Defendants in the suit are the mayor of Boston, Kevin White, the school committee, the city council, the city clerk and the election commissioners. They are charged with cruelly treating the election process in violation of the Constitution and the Voting Rights Act.

In 1974 a preliminary vote on a referendum which would change the city-wide election process was debated although Black wards voted overwhelmingly to change the election system, setting the stage for this ongoing court battle.

A GUIDE TO TENANT RIGHTS AND LANDLORD RESPONSIBILITIES

Public Service Feature From THE BLACK PANTHER

This guide, now published in a booklet, THE BLACK PANTHER provides valuable information for California tenants. Prepared by Robert Blumberg and Brian John Robbins of the National Housing and Economic Development Law Project, this tenant's guide should be read and understood by all Black and poor oppressed people presently in the position of potentially being harassed and exploited by racist, life-threatening landlords or fast-talking housing dealers.

The Black Panther Party has long maintained in its 10 Point Program and Platform that: "We want decent housing fit for the shelter of human beings." Until each time is the housing and the land can be owned and controlled by the people, we must take full advantage of every channel available to us to correct the injustices inflicted upon our communities.

THE BLACK PANTHER thanks the Memphis County Metropolitan Housing Center (Mail T.E.N.A.N.T.S.) for making this information on housing rights and responsibilities available to our readers.

On January 15, 1974, the California Supreme Court unanimously held that a "warranty of habitability" was to be implied in every residential tenancy in the state. Harris v. Superior Court. This decision applies to every tenancy whether under a written agreement or a written lease, or whether the rent is paid on a day, week, month or year.

In other words, if you are a tenant no matter how informal your agreement with your landlord is, you are protected by this decision. Your rights under the Harris case cannot be waived or taken from you.

The warranty of habitability is for the protection of the tenant. When this warranty has been breached by the landlord the tenant may withhold rent for the purpose of forcing the landlord to repair the premises or to reduce the rent.

If a court determines that there has been a breach of the warranty, the tenant cannot be evicted for nonpayment of the rent withheld, and the court will order the tenant's rent lowered until repairs are completed. The tenant, however, will then be obligated to pay the new lower rent ordered by the court.

In this way the tenant receives justice in the form of lower rent

Families living in basement — a clear violation of the "warranty of habitability" which legally protects tenants from conditions which are unsafe, unsanitary, and unfit for the shelter of human beings.

and the landlord is penalized until repairs are made.

The "warranty of habitability" is simply a legal term which means livable, habitable, safe, sanitary, decent and fit for residential occupancy.

Because the warranty is a broad term concept and does not have a narrow and precise definition a breach of the warranty of habitability is a court determined decision based on the facts of each individual case as determined by the judge or jury.

The presence of housing code violations is a good indication of a breach of the warranty, but in and of itself is not an absolute guarantee of breach. This is because housing codes cover many narrow areas which do not affect livability, such as height of bridges, design of building materials, etc. It is the warranty-

Ghanaian Envoy Visits East Oakland

(Oakland, Calif.) - The recent appearance of His Excellency SAMUEL ERNEST QUARM, Ghanaian Ambassador to the U.S., at Merritt College's Community Development Center on E. 14th Street here, was a welcome surprise for local residents. Indeed, over 200 community people packed their way into the Center to hear Brother Quarm speak of his country's continuing "struggle for freedom" against imperialist domination and the "sustaining ideas" of the late Kwame Nkrumah in this struggle. The next day, in a pleasant downtown ceremony, the city of Oakland officially proclaimed Sekondi-Pakosanti, Ghana, as its sister city. Brother Quarm's visit here was sponsored by the African Sister City Committee, a group committed toward cultural and social exchange between continental Africa and the U.S.

PEOPLE'S PERSPECTIVE

"NATIONAL IGALITARIAN DE"

(Minneapolis, Minn.) - The latest racist claim of Nobel Prize-winning physicist William Shockley is that the principle of equal employment opportunity will lead to "business decay" for the United States. Shockley, physicist professor emeritus at Stanford University, has argued for years that Blacks are genetically inferior to Whites. More recently Shockley said the courts are operating under the assumption that all races are equally intelligent — an assumption he calls the "national egalitarian lie."

NEW K.K.K. FORMED

(Los Angeles, Calif.) - Duke Hensch, former grand dragon of Udon Ku Klux Klan, said recently that a new national Klan has been organized under the group's old title of Invisible Empire of the Ku Klux Klan. According to Hensch, the new Klan "will have a women's auxiliary and a junior Klan program for those from 15 to 18 years of age."

EXPLAIN CREDIT DENIAL

(Washington, D.C.) - Individuals denied credit by a bank, retailer or other lender now have the right, under new government regulations just issued, to be told the reason for the denial.

CASINO HIT "PATRIOTIC DUTY"

(Washington, D.C.) - The CIA was prepared to pay the Mafia as high as $100,000 to kill Cuban Premier Fidel Castro at the time of the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion according to informed investigators' current revelations. However, the money was turned down by Mafia figures Sam Giancana and John Roselli, who agreed to undertake the mission for free. Roselli said that he turned down the money because he felt he was performing "a patriotic duty."

GEORGIA RELEASES PRISONERS

(Atlanta, Ga.) - The state of Georgia released between 500 and 1,000 prison inmates this week in an emergency move to relieve "potentially explosive" prison overcrowding. Several thousand more inmates are expected to be given early release during the next few months.

Angola Prison Stalls On Improvements

(Angola, La.) - Recently there has emerged a sinister increase in tactics of intimidation and harassment of inmates by personnel of Angola Prison's Security Department.

These actions are viewed by inmates as a provocative attempt to ignite open rebellion by the prisoners and thereby give authorities an excuse to declare a "state of emergency" and delay in implementing changes at Angola ordered recently by the federal Eastern District Court.

Disruptive activities on the part of prison officials include frequent searches of the prisoners' possessions, confiscation and destruction of prisoners' personal property and humiliating, dehumanizing racial searches.

In a letter written by prison inmates sent to THE BLACK PANTHER, the brothers wrote, "The intent of this procedure is perpetuated to provide a continuation of unmitigated alteration endorsing prison administration and prisoners."

HARASSMENT

Prisoners have questioned the staff here as an attempt to discover the purpose of the increased harassment and brutal intimidations. They describe the response by prison administrators as "disparaging, perfunctory and arbitrary."

They go on to state that if present behavior on the part of the prison officials continues, a normal, human reaction on the part of the inmates would be to resist abusive treatment. "In order to retain a sense of dignity and confidence in one's self," the prison letter states.

Recently the Louisiana Department of Corrections issued a proclamation declaring the situation here as "potentially explosive." Examination of the living conditions at Angola gives a clear understanding of why the Department of Corrections reached this conclusion.

Inadequate and insufficient housing facilities for inmates, overcrowded educational programs, improper medical treatment, racial bias and the all-around inhumanity of the entire facility seriously problematize the situation.

REPRESSION MOUNTS AGAINST WOMEN INMATES AT NORTH CAROLINA PRISON

(Raleigh, N.C.) - The recent return here of the last of the women inmates at North Carolina Correctional Center for Women (NCCCW) who were shipped to a men's prison following their peaceful protest last June has prompted stepped-up harassment and brutality of the women by the prison's administration.

A letter sent to THE BLACK PANTHER by inmate activist Sister Marjorie Marsh describes several incidents of violence and repression provoked by prison officials to break the spirits of the women of NCCCW who are courageously struggling against the inhumane conditions at NCCCW.

Sister Marjorie's letter stated that for no reason inmates Anne Willett, Shirley Herth and Alice Wise were thrown into Security (the hole). For five days, none of the three women was given any of the necessary toilet items such as face clothes, toothpaste, toothbrushes, and combs. There were no sheets in the hole and only one wool blanket was provided for the three women.

Inmates of Women's Prison in Raleigh, N.C., are shown tending to an inmate wounded in last June's rebellion. The repression still continues against the women who participated in this just protest.

During the transfer of the three from Diet C to Security, Anne's shoulder was dislocated and Shirley's foot was sprained and skinned badly as the result of being dragged. Some of the women saw a doctor until two days later at which time the nurses and guards refused to give Anne, Shirley and Alice their medication.

In another incident Marjorie wrote that she and six other NCCCW inmates were served with disciplinary charges resulting from an alleged disturbance. They were scheduled to be tried on the charges on October 9.

A passionate plea for help for the women of NCCCW - entitled "The Four Questionable Women" - sent to THE BLACK PANTHER by NCCCW Sister Brown Bender, points to the serious struggle being waged by the women of the prison.

"When - The present situation existing here at North Carolina Correctional Center for Women. Ever since the peaceful demonstration that occurred here from June 18-19, 1968, terrorism, discrimination, selectivity and persecutions have become great. Sister Anne Willett, an 85-pound woman, has had her shoulder dislocated by these prison officials, who strike off of your kindness, my dear people. You let them thrive off of your given consent to use their authority, which you give them."

"How long will you let them continue? They abuse our bodies as well as the our bodies for personal gain. When will you our people put a stop to this torture, this abuse through?"

"Where are you, my dear people? We need you now, help without you we stand alone against this capitalistic system that governs you as well."

"What is happening here, what? It is a mind boggling and confusing world."

Q: Did Mr. Sutton ever tell you that the YSA was violating any laws of the State of Illinois or the United States of America?

A: The only law I remember him relating to me was that they were traitors and treasonous individuals.

Q: And is that why you began infiltrating the YSA?

A: Yes, sir.

Q: What did you do insofar as infiltrating? What, actually, did you say that you were? Who did you tell the people there that you were and what did you do?

A: Well the first time I came to the office on Canal Street there was an individual that I knew from high school; so, I had to use my correct name. I told them I was sympathetic to their cause, I wanted to know a little more about it, that I was against the war in Vietnam, and basically some issues that I had been involved on before.

Q: Now, what happened as a result of your initial conversations with them?

A: I attended other meetings and struck up somewhat of a friendship with some people there in the organization. And I gathered any intelligence information I could obtain, physical.

Q: When you say "gathered" you mean stole? Did you steal them?

A: On some occasions, yes.

In conversations and in my work with the police department and other agencies, I was advised that for example, if I was at a demonstration and I broke windows or did something violent that I wouldn't have to worry about I would just make a phone call and they — I would be let out.

Q: Who were you to make a phone call to?

A: As I remember, I was directed by Mr. Mieske; I was given a phone number. And, as I remember, it was Sergeant Grubbs.

Q: So, in effect, you were led to believe or were told that you had immunity from prosecution insofar as things you did wrong, is that correct?

A: Yes.

Q: You were told you had nothing to worry about if you broke the law; is that correct?

A: Yes. But, I didn't consider it breaking the law.

What Do You Like About The S.A.F.E. Program?

ASKED AT THE SAFE CLUB DINNER AT THE OAKLAND COMMUNITY LEARNING CENTER

Beth Jones
540 21st St.

I like everything about the SAFE Program. I like going to the lunts and cashing the checks, because senior citizens need that. I like going to the grocery. I like seniors being able to go and do their own shopping, because that is what seniors should do for themselves.

Fine. This young girl has been coming to my house visiting me and someone came by and gave me a Sickle Cell Anemia test. I like it.

I like everything I've seen about it so far, picking me up, taking me around, meeting different people, enjoying luncheons. I really enjoy it.

I love it. One thing I like about it are these young people who are so nice to the older people. They come around, they call up to see how you're feeling. Anyway they can assist you, they will. I like that about it because I love old folks myself, you see.

It's good. I love it, the whole thing. This makes the third time I've come here and I've enjoyed myself every time. The dinner is good, really good. In fact, I've got some more ice cream coming up real soon.

I love it. It's part of me. What do you want to know? All of that for? I come down here all the time, I don't have to, but I do. I come to this Center three, sometimes four, times a week. I see the people here and the children coming out of school. I talk and play with them. You ask me a question about JoAnne Little, I saw her here too.

ATMORE-HOLMAN INMATE PLEADS FOR JUSTICE

Earnest Ball Appeals For Help Against "Bestial" Treatment

Holman Station, Ala. - An inmate at Alabama's infamous Atmore-Holman Prison, unjustly convicted for the murder of a racist Alabama policeman, is urgently appealing for help in his fight for justice and against "bestial" treatment given him by police and prison guards.

In correspondence received by THE BLACK PANTHER, Brother Earnest Ball of the Inmates for Action (IAA), the inmate activist organization, details numerous acts of brutality committed against him as well as flagrant, racist violations of the judicial process in his case.

On December 10, 1972, police entered the residence of Ball's ex-wife without prior warning, shooting in an attempt to kill him. Although Ball grabbed for a shotgun to defend himself, the policeman, John Thomas, who was fatally wounded was shot in the back as he faced Ball directly head on. Although a policeman testified to this at a pretrial hearing, the same policeman lied at the subsequent trial. A district attorney introduced a theory that a policeman's bullet hit the end of the shotgun held by Ball, causing it to explode, but this was suppressed by Ball's own lawyer, who seemed to be defending the state more than his client.

EVIDENCE SUPPRESSED

There is more than enough evidence to prove Brother Earnest's innocence but the court has continually suppressed or totally ignored this evidence.

In the words of Brother Ball, the treatment he has received from police and guards is the most "barbaric and savage" he ever witnessed.

At the scene of the incident he was brutally beaten and although he was seriously wounded he was not taken to a hospital. Instead he was taken to the Tuscaloosa City Jail where he was stomped and beaten some more and left for dead. Then he was taken to the city hospital where he received inhumane and sub-par medical treatment.

Since his incarceration at the Atmore-Holman Prison complex, he has been put in a refrigerated cell with hardly any clothing, no bed and no toilet.

In his struggle for justice Brother Ball has appealed his case all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court and has filed lawsuits totaling $1,700,000

Inmates enduring the dehumanization of prison confinement. Besides this confinement, they are also subjected to the sick brutality of prison guards.

against Tuscaloosa city police, the doctors who gave him improper medical treatment and the jailer who locked him in the refrigerated cell.

The conclusion of Earnest Ball's appeal brought out the fact that he has suffered these injustices because he spoke out against Tuscaloosa's criminal drug element and the police force's involvement in this drug traffic.

All legal actions he has initiated have produced no results and, he states, "I have suffered severely and I will never attain justice and my freedom without the support of the people. The crime I have been falsely accused of and imprisoned in prison for is against the establishment. Help and justice are hard to come by when you are poor and oppressed."

Brother Earnest Ball needs support for his case in any form possible. Also, the Inmates for Action need donations of towels, pencils, pens, books, rulers, old typewriters and educational materials. If you wish to correspond with Brother Earnest, you can write him at this address: Earnest Ball, P.O. Box 37, Holman Station, Alabama 36503.

Courts-Martial Victory For Redrock Brothers

(Mannheim, Germany) - The courts-martial of Specialist 1st Class Kelly, Pvt. "Jazz" Hansen, Lance Williams, Ronald Puddin, Bob Motta and Wash Henderson, held at the Army base here, are over and a victory has been won.

The trials grew out of a barracks fight between the brothers and a known White racist private named Stephen Kitta.

The fight started when Kitta accused "the niggers across the hall" of stealing his cigarettes. The important point is how the Army reacted to the situation.

In a press release issued by the lawyers Military Defense Committee, it was pointed out that fist fights are not uncommon in the Army. Those that don't result in serious injury and involve no weapons are normally either not prosecuted at all or handled at the Article 15 (administrative punishment) level.

In this situation though, the Army chose to go through four long trials. Why? The Army felt that all the brothers except Pvt. Motta (the only White defendant) were members of a Black militant organization called "Redrock."

MUTUAL SUPPORT

It was true that all six were friends who looked to each other for mutual support. At their base (Coleman Barracks), there had been a recent Ku Klux Klan-type cross burning and even the Army's own Equal Opportunity Office had concluded that their company was rampant with racism.

Nevertheless, as a result of the trials, Brother Williams, Puddin and Henderson were found not to have touched Kitta. Brother Hansen was released when the court decided he acted in self-defense.

Brother Kelly and Motta were found guilty of assault and battery, however Brother Kelly received no fine or confinement and Motta received 45 days' confinement and was fined $300.

The feeling among the defendants afterward was that the racist Army command had been dealt a defeat.

THE BLACK PANTHER thanks the Lawyers Military Defense Committee at Mannheim, Germany, for sending us this story. (P)

...And Bid Him Sing

Exciting New Novel Examines Lives Of Black Americans In Egypt

By David G. DuBois

In Part 3 of ...And Bid Him Sing, we continue to learn about the people surrounding the novel's central character — Suliman bin Hashid, a self-exiled Black American poet living in Cairo, Egypt, during the 1967 Middle East War. The critically acclaimed novel, the first for BLACK PANTHER Editor-in-Chief, David G. DuBois, centers around the flight of Suliman and other Black Americans from America to Cairo to escape the degradation of U.S. racism.

PART 3

"Is it possible that this American really wants to be my friend?" He'd kept returning to Suliman's room for confirmation. The greetings he received invariably reassured him. "I'm not wrong," he'd tell himself. "It's true, Suliman is always glad to see me, doesn't tire of me, wants me to be his friend." Sayyid searched for practical ways to show his gratitude and eagerly accepted any opportunity that presented itself. He sensed that just being with Suliman, in his room, pleased him, so he'd decided to come as often as possible. This was at least once a day.

"Joseph says there will be work against the Green Lantern," Sayyid said in the slow and deliberate way he had of speaking Arabic to Suliman. He had a soft voice that seldom varied in pitch or intensity. "He does not know how many nights. But he says they'll pay us two pounds a night."

Sayyid was one of the two drummers for the dance group that Joseph had organized, managed and started in. The group included three girls. Karima was one of them. Suliman had first seen her on the stage of the Green Lantern cabaret.

"Mashuk! Congratulations!" Suliman said. "That's great." He remembered now that Sayyid had said something about this the night before. He had thought to himself then, and the thought returned now, Joseph will probably be getting three pounds, keeping one for himself and dividing up the rest.

But the news was welcome anyway, because it meant that Karima would be getting around fifty pounds a night when and if they started. With that she would be able to take care of her own needs. He'd only have to give her money for food. It also meant that Joseph would be showing up regularly with hashish — a kind of guilt gesture he made for stealing from the others. It would be of good quality and there wouldn't be much, but it would be better than nothing.

This was why Suliman had never said anything to Karima or Sayyid about Joseph stealing from them. Although they had never mentioned it, Suliman was sure Joseph knew that he knew. Thus, a secret bond had been created between them; a conspiracy that Joseph knew would only continue as long as he provided hashish. Suliman did not like Joseph, but he tolerated him because of the hashish and because of Karima and Sayyid. He felt Joseph went about the business of managing the troupe and his money and varied private affairs with the air of a man who used everyone he could to satisfy his own desires.

The knowledge that he was using and had been using both Karima and Sayyid in this way was always with Suliman. Joseph had introduced him to Karima that first night at the Green Lantern, and had brought her to the place in Garden City for the first time.

Sayyid was telling Suliman about a working party he was going to play for on the evening Thursday night when the door swung wide open and Karima entered carrying several newspaper-wrapped packages. Joseph followed immediately behind her. Sayyid kept out out of his chair, in deference more to Joseph than to Karima, and greeted them both in a rush of words.

Karima's greeting to Sayyid was matter-of-fact, though not impolite, as if she had expected to find him there. She slid past him, knelt on the bed and kissed Suliman on the mouth. He covered up his embarrassment with a groff "Where were you?"

"At the market. I ran into Joseph on his way here." She spoke to him in a kind of pidgin Arabic tailored to his ability in the language. Conversation in depth was left to the hazards of misinterpretation.

Suliman had from the beginning insisted on the ritual hello and goodbye kiss, despite her objection. She didn't mind the kisses. In fact, she enjoyed them. This way he used his mouth in love-making had always been exciting for her. But because there was only one room and because there were almost always other people around, she had objected. She tried to explain to him that such a thing was never done in the presence of others in Egypt. She knew it was done by foreigners.

But no Egyptian woman could expect to escape the scorn of other Egyptians if she did it. Suliman had only partly understood what she'd said, but catching the hint of terror in her voice and manner had taken it for revelation. It had been the first time he'd hit her, hard, with the back of his hand across her mouth. Only his pleading insistence that she belonged to him now, that it didn't matter what people thought, that she was to do exactly as he wanted and that he would protect her from their scorn, only this had silenced her protest.

It was true. She did belong to him now and was obliged to do exactly as he wanted. She wanted to do exactly as he wanted. But it was not true that it didn't matter what people thought, nor could he really protect her from their scorn. But it was the expression of his desire to do so that had silenced her, that had swept away the hurt. A great tenderness had welled up in her with the realization that it was to protect her from "them" scorn that he had married her. She remembered this each time she kissed him in the presence of others.

REVOLUTIONARY SUICIDE

"College And The Afro-American Association"

By Huey P. Newton

Brother Huey P. Newton, leader and chief theoretician of the Black Panther Party, has just left home in this episode from Revolutionary Suicide. He is continuing his search for truth and reality. Huey enrolls at Oakland City College (now Orin Street College) in North Oakland, but he maintains his ties with the street life. In order to fight against the oppression he has clearly perceived and to avoid being crushed by it, he began to seek out various organizations, one of them being the Afro-American Association, headed by now Oakland businessman/lawyer Donald Warden.

PART 33

"Black is not only beautiful; it's hot too. It's fast, chess, nung-tung and ass-kicking, too."

MELVIN VAN PEEBLES—
Am't Supposed to Die a Natural Death.

In 1966, when I started at Oakland City College (now Merritt College), it was a junior college located in North Oakland, surrounded by the Black community. Many Black people attended it at that time, and I joined the crowd. College for me was more than books and lectures and classes although they were important. For one thing, I never really left my neighborhood, and I still ran with the brothers on the block. Any money I had came from petty crime, an old pattern with me. This, however, became a time for making new friends and joining organizations that started me in new directions.

One of my first friends at Oakland City College was Richard Thorne. Richard was a very tall, very Black fellow who even then, prior to the "Black cultural revolution," wore his hair in a natural. His appearance caused awe in some people and frightened others. He knew how to excite those feelings and how to exert an influence over those around him.

I stayed with Richard for about a month after I left home, before I moved into Poor Boys Hall. Poor Boys Hall was behind a bookstore across from the college. The owners had converted a big storage warehouse into a dormitory with rooms — not really rooms but stalls — with thin plywood dividers. A stall rented for $15 a month. I loved being around Poor Boys Hall because most of my friends among the "managers" were young fellows just beginning to "get their thing together."

Like me, they were searching. Some of them have gone on to become a part of the system, while others have been further victimized. I kept up close contact with Richard Thorne, too, and we spent a lot of time together at his apartment. Richard usually had several girls around and was always talking about the two or three books he intended to write. I was more interested in the girls.

Richard had a theory about intimate human relations. He saw possessive love as pure love, the only love, and possessive love as a mockery of pure love. Nonpossessive love did not enslave or frustrate the love object. Richard was critical of what he called "bourgeois love relationships," of the marriage system and the requirements of the marriage partners to each other (i.e., sex with one partner, jealousy, limits upon mobility, well-defined roles based upon sex).

He felt that people should not be like cars or houses. No man should own a wife, nor should a wife own a husband, because ownership is predicated upon control, fence, barriers, constraints, and psychological tyranny. Nonpossessive love is based upon shared experiences and friendship. It is the kind of love we have for our bodies, or our thumb or foot. We love ourselves, our bodies, but we do not want to enslave any part of ourselves.

Richard and I engaged in some deep discussions. Sometimes we stayed at his house for days talking about the general situation, cursing the White man for everything, and drinking wine. When I tired of those sessions, I made it down to the block to be with the righteous street brothers.

ANGRY YOUNG MAN

I was an angry young man at this time, drinking wine and fighting on the block, burglarizing houses in the Berkeley Hills, and going to school at Oakland City College. I was missing away from family and of sex, which had offered me so much comfort in earlier days, and was looking for something new. The questions I asked during this period were so disturbing that I acted outrageously to drive them away. I was looking for something more tangible with which to identify. I saw all my turmoil in terms of racism and exploitation and the obvious discrepancies between the haves and have-nots. I was trying to figure out how to avoid being crushed and being respect-for myself, how to keep from embracing the oppressor that had already ruined my family and community.

In the discussions at Phi Beta Sigma, a social fraternity I joined for a while, I expressed my anger about society and White racism. The others told me that I sounded like a guy named Donald Warden who was preaching Blackness at the Berkeley campus of the University of California. He was the head of an organization called the Afro-American Association.

I went to Berkeley to find Warden and hear what he was saying. The first member I met, though, was Maurice Dawson, one of Warden's tight partners. He turned me down with his arrogance. I had come searching for something, and he scorned me because I did not already know what I was seeking. I could not understand what he was saying about "Afro-Americans." The term was new to me. Dawson really put me down.

"You know what an Afro-Chican is?"

"Yes."

"You know what an Afro-Brazilian is?"

"Yes."

"Then why don't you know what an Afro-American is?"

It may have been apparent to him, but not to me. But I was still interested.

Maurice taught me a lesson that I try to apply to the Black Panther Party today. I dissuade Party members from putting down people who do not understand. Even people who are unenlightened and seemingly bourgeois should be answered in a polite way. Things should be explained to them as fully as possible. I was turned off by a person who did not want to talk to me because I was not important enough. TO BE CONTINUED

THE BLACK PANTHER PARTY PROGRAM

MARCH 29, 1972 PLATFORM

WHAT WE WANT, WHAT WE BELIEVE

1. WE WANT FREEDOM. WE WANT POWER TO DETERMINE THE DESTINY OF OUR BLACK AND OPPRESSED COMMUNITIES.

We believe that Black and oppressed people will not be free until we are able to determine our destinies in our own communities ourselves by fully controlling all the institutions which exist in our communities.

2. WE WANT FULL EMPLOYMENT FOR OUR PEOPLE.

We believe that the federal government is responsible and obligated to give every person employment as a guaranteed income. We believe that if the American businessmen will not give full employment, then the technology and means of production should be taken from the businessmen and placed in the community so that the people of the community can organize and control all of its people and give a high standard of living.

3. WE WANT AN END TO THE ROBBERY BY THE CAPITALIST OF OUR BLACK AND OPPRESSED COMMUNITIES.

We believe that the racist government has robbed us and now we are demanding the overdue debt of lives, money and resources. Four million Black and white people were promised 100 years ago as reparation for slave labor and mass murder of Black people. We will accept the payment in currency which will be distributed to our living communities. The American racist has taken part in the slaughter of over 100 million Black people. Therefore, we feel this is a modest demand that we make.

4. WE WANT DECENT HOUSING, FIT FOR THE SHELTER OF HUMAN BEINGS.

We believe that if the government will not give decent housing to our Black and oppressed communities, then the housing and the land should be made into cooperatives so that the people can own cooperatives with governmental aid and build and make decent housing for the people.

5. WE WANT EDUCATION FOR OUR PEOPLE THAT EXPOSES THE TRUE NATURE OF THIS DECADES AMERICAN SOCIETY. WE WANT EDUCATION THAT TEACHES AN OUR TRUE HISTORY AND OUR ROLE IN THE PRESENT-DAY SOCIETY.

We believe the educational system will give to our people a knowledge of self. If you do not have knowledge of yourself and your position in the society and the world, then you will have a hard time to have anything else.

6. WE WANT COMPLETELY FREE HEALTH CARE FOR ALL BLACK AND OPPRESSED PEOPLE.

We believe that the government must provide, free of charge, for our people better facilities which will not only meet the physical, most of which have come about as a result of the oppression, but also with alternative preventative medical programs to promote our betterment. We believe that every health education and research program must be developed to give our Black and oppressed people better knowledge of scientific and medical information to all our people, especially with proper medical attention and care.

7. WE WANT AN IMMEDIATE END TO POLICE BRUTALITY AND MURDER OF BLACK PEOPLE, OTHER PEOPLE OF COLOR, AND OPPRESSED PEOPLE INSIDE THE UNITED STATES.

We believe that the racist and fascist government of the United States will not give us decent conditions unless we carry out its program of self-defense against Black people and people of color and poor people inside the United States. We believe it is our right, therefore, to defend ourselves against such armed forces and that all Black and oppressed people should be armed for self-defense at our homes and communities against these fascist police forces.

8. WE WANT AN IMMEDIATE END TO ALL WARS OF AGGRESSION.

We believe that the various conflicts which exist around the world stem directly from the aggressive desires of the U.S. ruling circle and government to bring its domination upon the oppressed people of the world. We believe that if the U.S. government or its leaders do not end these aggressive wars that it is the right of the people to defend themselves by any means necessary against their aggressors.

9. WE WANT FREEDOM FOR ALL BLACK AND POOR OPPRESSED PEOPLE NOW HELD IN U.S. FEDERAL, STATE, COUNTY, CITY AND MILITARY PRISONS AND JAILS. WE WANT TRIALS BY A JURY OF PEERS FOR ALL PERSONS CHARGED WITH SO-CALLED CRIMES UNDER THE LAWS OF THIS COUNTRY.

We believe that the Black and poor oppressed people now held in U.S. prisons and jails have not received fair and impartial trials under a racist and fascist judicial system and should be free from incarceration. We believe in the ultimate elimination of all enriched, human penal institutions because the misery of men and women imprisoned inside the United States or by the U.S. military are the result of oppression and racism which are the real cause of their imprisonment. We believe that when prisoners are brought to trial that they must be guaranteed by the United States people of their peers, attorneys of their choice, and freedom from imprisonment while awaiting trial.

10. WE WANT LAND, BREAD, HOUSING, EDUCATION, CLOTHING, JEWELRY, PEACE AND PEOPLE'S COMMUNITY CONTROL OF MODERN TECHNOLOGY.

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bonds which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We find these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence forbids that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly, all reformers must look to the future with firmness, and not with despair. But when the long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their duty to throw off such government, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness.

People's China Foreign Minister Warns Of New World War Danger

(Peking, People's China) — On the occasion of the banquet given here by Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua for U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger on the conclusion of Kissinger's recent state visit to People's China, Kuan-hua warned that "world contradictions are sharpening" and that "the danger of a new world war is mounting," which may account for what has been called a "cool" ending to Kissinger's visit.

The Chinese foreign minister's toast at the banquet pointed to the fact that the opposition of the government of People's China to international imperialism and capitalism remains steadfast despite the country's recent efforts to improve its relations with the U.S.

Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua said in his banquet toast: "The current international situation is characterized by great disorder under heaven, and the situation is excellent. The basic contradictions in the world are sharpening. The factors for both revolutions and war are increasing. The stark reality is not that debate has developed to a new stage, but that the danger of a new world war is mounting."

NO LASTING PEACE

"We do not believe there is any lasting peace. Things develop according to objective laws independently of man's will. The only way to deal with hegemonism is to wage a tenacious struggle against it. To base oneself on illusion, to mistake paper or wishes for reality and act accordingly will only add the millions of expansionists and lead to grave consequences."

"In this regard, the history of the Second World War provides a cruel lesson. In the face of the mounting danger of war, China's fundamental policy is to defend itself in all circumstances, to make preparations for independence and self-reliance and make all necessary preparations. We are deeply convinced that, whatever dangers and reverses there may be in the

U.S. LEADS MOVE TO BLOCK U.N. CONDEMNATION OF ZIONISM

Moyanhan Attacks Third World, Socialist Countries

(United Nations, N.Y.) — A move is underway here, led by the U.S. chief delegate to the United Nations, to block passage by the U.N. General Assembly of the Social, Humanitarian and Cultural Committee adopted resolution equating Zionism with racism (See THE BLACK PANTHER, October 25, 1975.)

The resolution, which proposed that the General Assembly determine "that Zionism is a form of racism and racial discrimination," was adopted by the Committee last week by a vote of 70 to 20 with 27 abstentions. It is due to be discussed and voted upon by the General Assembly later during the current session.

U.S. chief delegate to the United Nations, Daniel P. Moynihan, who in 1969 recommended to the Nixon administration a policy of "benign neglect" toward racism against Black Americans, in a speech on October 21, to an Appeal of Conscience Foundation dinner in New York, said the resolution "must not pass the General Assembly."

Moynihan claimed that what was condemned in the Committee vote was not Zionism but Israel, "and not the state of Israel merely as much as the significance of Israel as one of the very few places outside of Western Europe and North America and a few offshore islands where Western democratic principles survive."

Implying that all these countries, mainly Third World and socialist, who voted to adopt the condemnation of Zionism as racism were other than democracies, Moynihan said in his speech, "the democracies seem to have found each other again," and that with only a few exceptions the democracies of the world came together and said "No" to "this infamous thing" referring to the resolution.

Meanwhile, in Washington, The New York Times reports that several key members of Congress have called for condemnation of the resolution, and a formal resolution was introduced in the House of Representatives and the Senate urging the U.N. General Assembly to reject the measure.

Senator Jacob K. Javits, a leading defender of Zionism in Congress, and the Florida Senator Richard Stone suggested that passage of the anti-Zionism resolution by the Assembly "might lead them to oppose further American funding for the United Nations," according to The New York Times.

CONGRESSIONAL ACTION

The paper asserts that White House officials indicated privately that they supported the Congressional action as a sign to members of the United Nations that such actions could jeopardize American contributions. In the House, nearly 100 representatives have already co-sponsored the resolution introduced by Representative Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. of Massachusetts, the majority leader, and more are expected to sign.

The Congressional measure strongly condemns the resolution adopted by the Third Committee of the United Nations General Assembly on October 27, 1975 in that said resolution wrongfully associates and equates Zionism with racism and racial discrimination, and urges the United Nations General Assembly to disapprove that said resolution if and when it is presented for a vote. The vote is not scheduled until next month.

The African-American Labor Center and the C.I.A.

By Rodney Larson

This week THE BLACK PANTHER concludes this original study on the role played by the AFL-CIO in conjunction with the CIA to corrupt and destroy the progressive African trade union and labor movement. We wish to thank labor researcher Rodney Larson for making this report available to us.

CONCLUSION

The extent of the AALC program can be illustrated by the breadth of the contacts in one country. Ethiopia Workers and Union officers were brought to the U.S. for extended and expensive "training." Over 1,000 members of the Ethiopian Labor Federation (ELF) have participated. In many seminars and an estimated 50,000 families have been reached by AALC audio-visual programs. This sample could be duplicated in dozens of countries. However, when 120,000 members of ELF affiliates went on a general strike for four days in 1974 for an increase in the minimum daily wage to 1.70 Ethiopian dollars (about 50 U.S. cents) and when the president of ELF, Beven Solomon, and the general secretary, Fiascha Tsion Tekie, were arrested, it was the ICFTU that intervened in their behalf and to whom they appealed — not the AALC or the AFL-CIO.

REPRESSIVE REGIME

The AALC programs in Ethiopia began under the repressive regime and with the express permission of Emperor Haile Selassie, who has since been overthrown and has died. This raises some questions and it should also be noted that the strike was won and the appeal for release of union leaders was successful. Strikes under Selassie were almost unknown or were brutally repressed.

It is a fact that nearly all of world labor has condemned the policies of apartheid in South Africa, including the AFL-CIO. However, only recently the general secretary of the ICFTU (International Confederation of Free Unions), journeyed to New York from Europe to meet with Kurt Waldheim, the U.S. leader to propose that ICFTU and other union representatives journey to South Africa with a U.S. team to investigate the massacre of 12 Black South African workers at Carlisleville. Twenty-two others were wounded in addition to the 12 killed.

It is significant that Waldheim thought enough of the sincerity of this proposal to agree with the ICFTU's Otto Kersken. Similar acts by the WCL (World Confederation of Labor) could be cited in South Africa and other places. This is the type of mission that has been requested of the AFL-CIO in the case of Chile. Nothing has come of it even though many lives might have been saved.

VIGOR

Regardless of the vigor of the AFL-CIO in its sentiments against apartheid, many people are concerned about the position taken by Meany's representatives at world conferences such as the meeting of the International Labor Organization (ILO) last June. The ILO is a tripartite body with government, management and labor organizations affiliated with the United Nations. Lucy Mbowele, from the South Africa Black Garment Workers Union, asked to speak to the assembly. Scores of worker delegates protested and claimed she was a "body with a black body with a white heart" and charges of her sponsorship by the South African government were made. Not one African worker's delegate supported her right to speak — in fact no worker delegate from any country did — except one. Meany's representative. Her request to appear was withdrawn. How did the American labor representatives get so out of step with world labor?

Will the AALC be used for intelligence and surveillance of unsuspecting African unions? A very prominent "insider" official of the CIA, Miles Copeland, who is still an agency supporter and sometimes "consultant," has stated that the CIA tactics of the '70s will be increasingly concentrated on the "protection of strategic materials" in the world, especially in underdeveloped areas. He stated that one method of doing this will be through "greater cooperation with the multinational corporations."

Agency officials, according to Copeland, believe that "whatever anyone may think about it, we are entering an era when the interests of the U.S. and those of frankly 'capitalist' institutions throughout the world so coincide that we have no choice but to take advantage of the fact. It is means cooperation with the unloved multinational corporations," Copeland concluded, "so be it."

Copeland outlines methods for early detection of the "enemy" who is often unknown, "so the offensives against him are largely a matter of seeking him out and learning in advance of his plans." A world information and computer collection service will be strengthened in cooperation with local police and intelligence services, he says, and this will be especially important in developing nations.

If the CIA wanted information about militant African labor unions and leaders, the African-American Labor Center (AALC) is a perfect instrument. The U.S. government funding of the program, under the administrations of anti-labor officials like Nixon, Rockefeller and Ford, with veteran CIA operatives like Brown and others in charge, and the record of such groups in Chile and other countries makes it likely that the AALC will confound us in the internal affairs of many countries.

The 1976 Agency for International Development budget is $2,250,000,000. Nearly all Congressmen are unaware of this. Other "subcontracts" will be given secretly to the International Trade Secretariat (ITS) and some American unions to supplement this. The amounts spent by the CIA are of course not revealed.

AFRICA IN FOCUS

O.A.U.

The Organization of African Unity (OAU) wants the United Nations to be a "zone of peace" and is against the building of military bases in this area. OAU Assistant Secretary General Karamba Wa Ransanda said at a press conference in Port Louis, Mauritania, last week, according to a Ushahidi report. Wa Ransanda also said the OAU is fighting for the establishment of an international economic order and seeks more stable terms for Africa's raw materials at better prices.

Mali

On October 13, Mali Minister of Commerce and Finance Fousseke Keita received two million dollars from the Saudi Arabian change d'affaires in Mali as part of $10 million in aid to Mali promised by Saudi Arabia. The money will be used to set up hospitals and clinics and to purchase equipment for dental centers and medicines. On October 3, it was announced that Saudi Arabia had granted $15 million to seriously drought-stricken West African countries to help them restore agriculture and animal husbandry. Beneficiary countries include Upper Volta, Mauritania, Niger, Senegal, Chad and the Gambia.

Dahomey

The West African country of Dahomey has severed diplomatic relations with the South Korean Park Chung Hee regime, it was announced recently. The announcement said the decision was made by the Political Bureau of the Dahomey National Council of Revolution at a meeting held on October 6, 1975.

Senegal

The Senegalese government has nationalized the important leather procurement and trade activity of the country, Hyndman reports, as a result of a government action on October 8. Damoua Sow, minister of Information, told the press that for a long time only the foreign dealers bent on "making the maximum profit with the minimum of costs" have benefited from the trade. Now the government has controlled it by law. The decision is significant for the country which is rich in ox and goat skins, he pointed out.

O.A.U. Group To Confer With Warring Angolan Liberation Movements

(Kampala, Uganda) — An Organization of African Unity (OAU) Angolan Conciliation Commission delegation is going to Angola to confer with warring elements toward an end to the fighting in Angola. This move was decided on here at a meeting of the Commission held from September 30 to October 4. The Commission was set up in line with a decision made at the 12th OAU Conference of Heads of State and Government.

The Commission meeting was attended by representatives from Burundi, Lesotho, Ghana, Niger, Senegal, Algeria, Morocco, Upper Volta and Uganda. The three Angolan liberation organizations — the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA), the Front for the National Liberation of Angola (FNLA) and the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola (UNITA) — sent delegations to the meeting. A representative of the Portuguese government attended as an observer.

Ugandan President Idi Amin, current chairman of the OAU, separately received delegations of the three organizations and the representative of the Portuguese government on October 4. President Amin hoped that the three Angolan liberation organizations would do all that was possible to unite and enable Angola to achieve independence peacefully.

WHAT'S BEHIND THE "MARCH OF CONQUEST" AGAINST SPANISH SAHARA?

The March of Conquest against Rio de Oro Spanish Sahara of 250,000 Moroccan citizens, backed up by 15,000 Moroccan troops, threatens to erupt into a major confrontation with the territory's independence movement POLISARIO, involving Algeria, Spain and the United States. Steve Tuflet, writing in the International Bulletin, analyzes the forces at play and the motivations in the following report:

If Morocco takes possession of the Spanish Sahara, it would control more than 80 per cent of the world's known supply of phosphates. That is not the only reason Morocco's King Hassan II has mobilized 250,000 of his subjects to cross the desert on a "March of Conquest" — but it is a powerful incentive.

Phosphates are an essential ingredient of chemical fertilizers, and in a hungry world trying to increase agricultural production, phosphates have become increasingly valuable. Morocco is currently the number one exporter of phosphates, but the Spanish Sahara has a vast supply estimated at 1.7 billion tons, which the Spanish colonizers have only recently begun to exploit.

King Hassan also sees great political advantage for his regime in focusing national attention on a campaign to occupy the Spanish Sahara. By making the Spanish Sahara an issue of manifest destiny and turning the march into a holy crusade blessed by Allah, the monarch has succeeded in diverting his people's attention from the grave problems of poverty, illiteracy and uneven economic development that plague Morocco.

King Hassan also wants to block Algeria from gaining political and economic advantage in a Spanish Sahara free from Spain's colonial rule. Morocco's conservative, Western-oriented monarchy has always vied for power in northwestern Africa with the more radical Arab nationalist and pro-Third World government in Algeria. Twelve years ago Morocco and Algeria fought a brief but bloody war over disputed iron-rich border territory.

INDEPENDENCE

Algeria favors independence for the Spanish Sahara and supports POLISARIO, the territory's nationalist movement, which claims the allegiance of 75 per cent of the Spanish Sahara's 80,000 inhabitants. If POLISARIO comes to power, Algeria would gain access to the Atlantic Ocean, allowing it to ship iron ore mined at Tindouf in southwestern Algeria across 300 miles of the Spanish Sahara instead of having to transport it north 1,000 miles to the Algerian port of Oran on the Mediterranean.

POLISARIO, founded in May, 1973, welcomes Algerian support, saying it is the only country in the region that has consistently defended the principle of self-determination for the people of the Spanish Sahara. POLISARIO's political program calls for the nationalization of the Sahara's mineral resources and emphasizes cooperative agricultural and industrial development. The group carried out a scattered, low-level guerrilla war against the 15,000 Spanish troops in the territory, finally forcing the Franco regime to announce that it would give up the colony and sponsor a referendum this year to let the people of the Spanish Sahara decide their own future.

Most observers believe that POLISARIO's demand for independence would easily win majority support in that referendum. Ever since Spain proposed the vote last year and the U.S. backed the plan, Morocco has intensified its drive to acquire the Spanish Sahara before it becomes independent.

Morocco filed a claim with the World Court arguing that the Spanish Sahara was part of its sovereign territory. This month the Court rejected that claim — along with a similar claim by another neighboring country, Mauritania — and King Hassan hurriedly announced that he would lead his "March of Conquest."

The U.S. Security Council avoided the issue, passing the buck to Secretary General Waldheim, who plans to visit Morocco and Algeria. A State Department official is already there.

Morocco keeps insisting that the march is not an invasion. Information Minister Ahmed Taibi Benhama called it a "strictly peaceful move to re-establish the history links" between Morocco and the Spanish Sahara. But Spain and POLISARIO — bitter enemies for years — both see the march of 250,000 Moroccan citizens — followed incidentally, by 15,000 Moroccan troops — as "an act of force." POLISARIO representatives say they cannot rule out an appeal to Algeria for military intervention if their small, poorly-armed forces are overrun at the border.

FRELIMO TRAINS Z.A.N.U. TROOPS FOR MAJOR OFFENSIVE IN RHODESIA

(Köln, West Germany) — A military training camp in Mozambique, established for the training of young Rhodesian guerrillas of the Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU) in preparation for a major guerrilla offensive in Rhodesia before the end of the year, is reported by Willy Leutenkirchen in the popular West German news-weekly Die Welt. Leutenkirchen visited the camp.

Located some 30 kilometers from the Rhodesian border, the camp is staffed by Frelimo for the Liberation of Mozambique (FRELIMO) guerrillas and Tanzanian revolutionaries. Leutenkirchen writes that the Vila Guaveira camp "is developing as one of the most important bases for the guerrilla units of ZANU."

Training is with machines, automatic rifles and the handling of landmines; the guerrilla's most numerous weapons. Leutenkirchen writes: Military training at Vila Guaveira — at the time of the visit containing 500 recruits — lasts six months, after which groups of five to 15 men are formed for tours into the north-east of Rhodesia. Leutenkirchen adds:

Zimbabwean freedom fighters are being trained by FRELIMO

Meanwhile, at the United Nations, declarations that Africans must cherish no illusions about the reactionary racist Smith regime and undertakings for further support for the Zimbabwe people's armed struggle were made by representatives of many countries during the just concluded general debate at the First and Non-Self-Governing Territories Committee of the current session of the General Assembly.

The Tanzanian representative said that all attempts to perpetuate minority rule in Zimbabwe could only strengthen the local people's determination to liberate themselves; and the failure of a peaceful solution would mean that armed struggle was the only alternative.

He added that the dialogue over the last 11 months had failed. The time had come, he said, to intensify the struggle by other means, namely by force. The Tanzanian delegation had no option but to support that struggle, he said.

The Algerian representative also said that the attempts to perpetuate minority rule in Zimbabwe only strengthen the local people's determination to liberate themselves; and the failure of a peaceful solution would mean that armed struggle was the only alternative.

The representatives of Senegal and Uganda also pledged material and moral support for the Zimbabwe people who are prepared to resume armed struggle. The representative of Guinea said

WORLD SCOPE

Cambodia

At least 16,000 Cambodians died of starvation or malnutrition-related diseases in the last four months of the war because the U.S. put military aid to the faltering American-backed Phnom Penh regime far ahead of food relief, according to a study by the Indochina Resource Center in Washington. The study also criticized the State Department for saying there were "physical limitations" on the amount of rice and medicines that could be shipped into besieged Phnom Penh — noting that the U.S. was flying 500 tons of ammunition into the city each day during the final weeks of the war.

Spain

A recent press conference held in Paris, France, revealed the existence of a secret anti-Franco (France is the dying dictator of the Spanish government) organization within the Spanish military. According to a spokesman for the group, the Democratic Military Union (DMU) includes only professional military men and is an autonomous movement without political affiliation. The spokesman added, however, that the DMU has already made contact with practically all the parties opposing the Franco regime.

Libya

In a major dispute with Occidental Petroleum Corporation, the Libyan government has banned the U.S. multinational from exporting any crude or refined oil and announced that it is willing to take over supplying Occidental's consumers. In a communiqué issued recently, the Libyan Ministry of Petroleum said that Occidental had "refused to pay money owed to the minority."

United Nations

The United Nations marked its 50th anniversary on October 24 and in a message broadcast this occasion, U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said that the world organization was involved in the creation of a better world for all.

MICHAEL BENNETT: RISING NEW STAR SEEKS TO SERVE THE PEOPLE

(Oakland, Calif. 1) The Oakland Community Learning Center's resident musical genius, Brother Michael Bennett, is a rising new star about to make a giant leap in the fields of songwriting, arranging and choreography. Besides these skills, Michael is also an accomplished singer and musician adept at playing several instruments.

As a musician Michael has not only developed his expertise on brass and lead guitar, piano and electric piano, clarinet, synthesizer and organ.

Born in Detroit, Michael is just 21 years old, with a decade of musical experience behind him. When asked in an interview at THE BLACK PANTHER office how he became interested in music, Michael stated that he saw the Beatles on television when he was very young and told himself that he could be just as good if not better.

At his young age, Michael has songwriting and arranging contracts with the following recording companies: Atlantic, Motown, Capitol and Epic. He is now in the process of writing songs for Lenny Williams (formerly of Tower of Power) and the Hues Corporation, while many other top-flight entertainers are vying for his services.

Michael's cousin, Benny Carter (long-time tenor sax for Duke

Brother MICHAEL BENNETT (right) is becoming more and more well known for his wealth of musical talent as well as his commitment to the community. Photo at left shows him practicing with GIL'S CREATION.

Ellington) gave Michael his initial inspiration and from there he performed with various groups around Oakland and the East Bay, the best known being The Majestics and Cool's Creation.

MISHAP

Mishap came upon Michael when he learned he was suffering from throat cancer. With the support and inspiration of the Oakland Community Learning Center, he continued his songwriting, and his musical career immediately began to blossom. After five successful operations on his throat, he should be able to sing, but he has already found success with his writing.

Michael states very emphatically that he wants "music to be music, not just a money trip" — which sets him apart from many other artists. He personally credits his success to the support given him by the Learning Center — naming Frank Huggins, director of the Oakland Community School, Joan Keller, program director of the Learning Center, and Chuckie Jackson, musical director of the Learning Center, as his prime supporters.

In his brief musical career, Michael has already experienced cruel exploitation faced by young artists. An ever present problem is that many performers are not able to get exposure. Michael has set a goal for himself to create and establish a recording studio where musicians could be able to record for free or for a nominal charge. Michael says that he got this idea from the Survival Programs of the Black Panther Party and is very enthusiastic about it knowing that it would be of great help to many musicians.

Presently, Michael is working for a group called Fame, composed of Jimmy Thomas, Carl Hayley, Philip Gibson, Dennis Kelly and Johnny Cooper. They have already received offers from clubs all over the country and are working on a recording contract with Atlantic Records. With Michael's leadership and musical prowess, look to hear from Fame very soon.

Anyone wishing to assist Michael in establishing a recording studio should contact him at this address: Michael Bennett, 1329 19th Avenue, Oakland, California 94621. Besides this studio, Michael is keenly interested in helping to establish a musicians' organization that truly serves the interests of all musicians, instead of the big recording companies.

limited prisoner trials throughout the country at enormous cost.

Albino, blind and shackled to their chairs, separated from the courtroom spectators and supporters by a 4-ft. 10-in. vision-distorting plexiglass panel, as well as being tried by a jury of non-peers before a hostile and politically conservative judge, the six brothers must now contend with having, in effect, been judged "guilty" in absentia without ever being convicted.

The fact that indigent inmates are being ordered to pay millions of dollars in damages lies in the face of justice when responsibility for creating and maintaining the tense, violence-prone atmosphere in prisons and adjustment centers throughout America clearly lies with insensitive, racist prison administrators.

Of course, the immediate effect of this outrageous decision is to prop up the toppling case for the prosecution in the San Quentin 6 trial.

In recent weeks, the prosecution's case was badly shaken when, under cross-examination, one of its own star witnesses, former San Quentin prison guard Lt. Eugene Zimmer, testified that although he was the first person to touch the fallen body of George Jackson, he saw no blood on or near the body.

Zimmer testified that he took a "close look" at Brother George's face when he turned the body over, reporting that he saw no blood. Even when shown photographs of Comrade George lying on his back where he was killed, his head surrounded by a large pool of blood, Zimmer again repeated his assertion.

This testimony raises several disquieting questions, all unsettling to the prosecution's case and confirming popular beliefs that the famous author-revolutionary was not killed by shots from a guard post over 100 yards away, but was murdered later, at close range by unknown vindictive guards and prison administrators.

Injured former guard Frank Bartholm, one of two wallpost guards who admit to having fired shots at Comrade George as he and Johnny Spain fled away from the Adjustment Center on August 21, testified that he himself believes his shot missed.

In other trial highlights, former guard Charles Breckner also testified that he could not swear he saw a knife in the hands of Hugo Powell, one of the men in the Adjustment Center on the 21st nor does he now know what prompted him to attribute to Powell or Willie Tate actions and language he alleged they had committed in his prior jury testimony.

Significantly, prosecutor Jerry Herman is now more and more assuming the jury that the charge of "killing and plotting" in a conspiracy justifies having no real evidence against the six defendants.

The San Quentin 6 have also seemingly won over another supporter to their side, namely Tim Hayden, the progressive candidate for the U.S. Senate from California.

In a recent speech following a visit to the San Quentin 6 trial, Hayden made these observations (in part):

"I think it is very important that people who live in Marin County become familiar with the San Quentin Six trial, because the jury has been selected from that county. Not only did the original hostile words occur in this county, but the jury has been drawn from a county that is 98% White to decide the fate of six non-White defendants.

What is essential about the case is not what you read in the papers, but the impression you get if you attend the trial. Nobody can endorse or condemn or get very sympathetic with the actual things that people are charged with, but one can have feelings about the origin of the problem.

I still have strange feelings about what happened at the Entrance to San Quentin's Adjustment Center, fallen Comrade George Jackson and Comrade Johnny Spain ran through this door into the AC courtyard on August 21, 1971, to escape the hellam created in the Adjustment Center by prison officials in their desperate attempt to assassinate the famed R. courtroom. Today I went through a procedure whereby your body is searched, including your organs. You're photographed by the police and they take down what they consider essential data about you. Then you enter the courtroom which is divided in half by a plexiglass wall.

Inside the courtroom is the system of American justice. There is the judge and the jury. Then the defendants are led in with chains around their necks and guns pointed behind their backs. They are bolted to the floor. Spectators have to watch them from behind the glass partition. It is just amazing that this can be tolerated.

I should immediately start to cry. In fact, it is very difficult to describe. The only thing that I can think of is the tiger cages where people are held in seven by seven cells twenty-three and a-half hours a day, and they are bolted in their cells. They cannot touch other people because then they will be driven even crazier. They have to fill their ears with anything they can get so that they can have some peace of mind.

"With a chain leash around their necks, they're taken to the courtroom, only to be bolted to the floor. It is amazing that we tolerate it.

"In this case, there is evidence that police agencies had some prior knowledge, which means that this case is not divorced from Watergate. These are super people still driven to maintain their power in this fashion. This perpetuates the form of this power. These forms include making sure that a trial happens; that the trial will not stop; and that there will be a verdict—as if the wall sandwich was system of justice as opposed to them who would resist and subvert it.

"So they proceed, and in the process justice is eliminated. A trial, a verdict, but where is the justice? The jury, behind a plexiglass wall in a bullet proof chamber, must decide. They look across the room at six defendants who are charged with the most violent, sordid crimes and see these defendants bolted to the floor, indicating that they are not human enough to be allowed to enter the courtroom as other civilized people. Can that judge and jury ever conclude impartially that these defendants are guilty or not guilty? It is impossible to be partial when you are asked to judge people bolted to the floor.

This kind of thing has to be stopped.

that Ian Smith was increasing his repression of the Black majority by refusing to grant it constitutional rights. Now the only language Smith could understand was Zulu, the Zulu representative expressed.

RECONCILIATION

The Chinese representative pointed out that the so-called "reconciliation" put forward by (Regulator) of South Africa of Vorster's and Smith's racist regimes were aimed at splitting the African national liberation movement, undermining the forces of the Zulu people and stamping out the revolutionary flames in southern Africa.

The Chinese delegate added that when the people in southern Africa were daily awakening and intensifying their armed struggle, such maneuvers on the part of Vorster and Smith by no means indicated the strength of those racist regimes, but instead revealed their weakness. Their desperate struggle was futile, the representative said. The Zulu people could not be cowed or deceived. They had come to realize from their experience that armed struggle is the fundamental way for the oppressed nations and peoples to win the victory of independence and liberation.

MARTIAL ARTS

The Human Machine

Human movements such as running, jumping, lifting, pulling and throwing may be taken as examples of the mechanical capabilities of the muscular and skeletal frame structural systems.

These movements are produced by skeletal muscles that apply force to bony machines operating at the joints of the body. The various segments of the body involved in a throwing movement, for example, may be considered the utilization of devices that supply the mechanical energy delivered to them through the bony machines in the production of mechanical work. The skeletal muscles, are, of course, the movers of this mechanical system, and their function in this respect can be likened to that of the electric motor, water turbine, or gasoline engine in other systems.

The bones of the body in their role as machines may be compared to the construction of levers, pulley wheels, and gears of an automobile, and the body parts in producing mechanical work may be compared to the airplane propeller, the wheels of a car, or the hands of a clock.

It is evident from the previous mention of the muscular and skeletal systems that the movement apparatus of our bodies, consisting of bones, muscles, and joints, is a mechanical machine system and experience indicates that its operations conform to the laws of mechanics just as do all such systems. The three simple machines found in the system of our bodies are the lever, the wheel and the axle, and the pulley.

The lever is one of the simplest of all mechanical devices that may rightfully be called a machine.

In fact, any rigid object free to turn about a center of rotation when an outside force is applied to it can be classified as a lever. The object may rightfully be called a machine because turning it overcomes a resistance and thereby produces mechanical work. The resistance consists of the weight of the object plus any external load added to it.

PEOPLE'S CHINA BOOSTS TABLE TENNIS IN AFRICA

In the following article, the promotion of table tennis in Africa by the People's Republic of China is discussed. In recent months, People's China has arranged extensive exchange programs and has sent teams out to perform at several places throughout the African continent.

The article is reprinted from the October, 1975, issue of Africa magazine.

While the International Olympic Committee is still debating the entry of China into the Olympic fraternity, China is busy forging sports unity with the Third World. Evidence of that was seen in the recent Asian-African-Latin American table tennis friendship invitation tournament held in Lagos, in July.

China's positive contribution to the success of the tournament was visible throughout the 12 days it lasted. Promoting the tournament cost Nigeria about $90,000 Nigerian pounds or more, but China went out of its way to urge full participation at the tournament. It attracted about 800 players from more than 50 countries; it had been hoped that the number of nations participating would be more than the record 86 that competed in the first tournament in Peking in 1973.

China paid for some nations to attend the Lagos tournament, as it did in the Peking festival, and also provided 50 tables, 600 bats, 62 electronic scoring machines, 300 enclosure stands and about 600 medals and trophies.

China has been helping the growth of the game in Africa by arranging exchange programs and sending teams out to perform in the continent.

About 10 years ago, table tennis was merely a diversion for most Africans. It did not feature in the first African Games held in Brazzaville in 1965. Today it is played seriously in about 30 African countries; 26 African nations participated in the Lagos tournament. The indications are that, apart from boxing and athletics, where Africans have achieved world honors, table tennis is the next sport in which Africans are going to make a big name.

The sport recommends itself naturally to the youths of the continent. It is not uncommon to see a 12-year-old making the national squad. Everywhere it is played, children can be seen at street corners with unpeeped rattles and bats knocking hard at the celluloid ball. What they need now is organized coaching and competitions to develop their talent. That is what the Chinese are helping to achieve.

ANANS

The Asians made a great impact on the Lagos tournament. As was expected the big honors went to the Chinese. They won the men's and women's team events and the men's and women's singles titles; the men's doubles and mixed doubles went to Japan, and North Koreans took the women's doubles, boy's and girl's singles honors.

The Nigerian singles champion, Bakunde Olsanya, and Nigeria's Lateef Sonmodi, his partner in the doubles, gave good accounts of themselves. Olsanya, reached the semi-finals in the men's singles and won the bronze, losing to the former world champion, Liang Ke Liang, of China, in three straight sets, 21-8, 21-7, 21-9. Liang went on to win the title by defeating the No. 1 seed, Mitsuru Kohno of Japan 3-1 (21-17, 22-20, 17-21, 21-17).

and Sonmodi eliminated the Chinese pair of Liang and Chen Wang 3-1 (14-21, 21-15, 21-16, 22-20) to qualify for the men's doubles final, but they were beaten 1-3 by the Japanese pair of Mitsuru Kohno and Katsuharu Abe, who won 21-17, 21-16, 21-23, 21-12. Their finalizing display made African proud and won for them a glorious silver.

The Egyptian men's doubles pair of Gural Eng and H-Sonbat, took the bronze and Gwang Taiwa of Nigeria took the silver in the boy's singles. The other African placings were: Nigeria's Rana Lami (eighth in the men's singles); Joseph Quash and Elvan Barika, of Ghana (fifth in the men's doubles); Eibel Jacks and Lawunu Majekodunmi of Nigeria, and Dalmolda Mawuena, of Togo (both in the boy's singles, and Y-Zakaria and B. Shaurawi both of Egypt (eighth in the men's doubles).

In the men's and women's team events, Nigeria was placed fifth and sixth respectively. Ghana was ninth and Egypt 12th in the men's event. Egypt was placed 14th and Togo was 18th in the women's event, and each upluffed for trophies given to the first 36 in every event.

O.A.U. To Confer With Angolan Liberation Movements in the interest of the Angolan people and Africa. Harbour reports.

Meanwhile, world opinion has expressed great concern over the situation in Angola, where civil war is being whipped up by the intervention of outside forces, as the November 11 Independence date approaches.

The Associated Press reports that U.S. officials said the U.S. is taking an "active interest" in the conflict and writes that "some officials clearly leave the impression that U.S. arms aid may be reaching two of the three factions fighting in the African colony."

The AP writes that "U.S. officials were reluctant to confirm or deny reports of U.S. arms being supplied to factions fighting the ... Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola. But they clearly leave the impression that some weapons aid is reaching one or both of the opposing factions," the FNLA and UNITA.

U.S. officials indicated that Great Britain is giving active support to UNITA. AP reports. However, U.S. officials acknowledge that U.S. aid might be too late since the MPLA forces now hold Luanda, the capital, and "are believed to be in control of 12 of the country's 17 provinces."

AFRICAN COUNTRIES

The governments and people of the African countries in particular have been pressing for an end to the superpower interference in Angola and have called on the three liberation organizations to stop the civil war, iron out their differences by peaceful means and unite to achieve independence.

At a press conference in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, on October 8, Nureddine Djoudi, an assistant secretary general of the O.A.U., said that "foreigners to Angola must not take advantage of the present situation to try and play between one movement and another." He added, "As far as the O.A.U. is concerned, the choice is not between MPLA, FNLA or UNITA. Its concern is to see to it that Angola becomes an independent country free from any control, direct or indirect, by anybody outside Angola."

The Angolan situation is one of the main topics referred to in the speeches of representatives of over 20 African countries at the 30th session of the U.N. General Assembly.

Ugandan President Idi Amin said that the U.S. must unequivocally condemn those powers who are pouring arms into Angola, thereby complicating further an already delicate situation. "The problem of Angola, being essentially African, should and ought to have an African solution," he stressed, adding, "Problems of Africa can be solved by Africans alone without interference from outside."

J. Garba, commissioner for External Affairs of Nigeria, told the United Nations: "We call most solemnly upon the outside mediators in the Angolan situation to keep off and give the Angolan people the chance of settling down to the immense task of nation building."

Jean Koutcha, Cameroonian minister for Foreign Affairs, pointed out, "The young states should maintain vigilance particularly when consolidating independence. They should place themselves on guard to forestall and fight the subversive schemes of Africa's enemies who are stirring up hatred and discord in Angola."

A Guide To Tenant Rights

ness of the violation and to what extent they affect health, safety and the use of vital facilities that determines whether or not the warranty has been breached.

Perhaps the best way the tenant can determine if a breach of the warranty exists is if the tenant can truly say:

"There exists a substantial problem in the apartment affecting health, safety or use of vital facilities, which I have not caused and the landlord knows about but has not fixed."

VITAL FACILITIES

(Vital facilities refers to any element in the apartment which is necessary to decent living for the occupants.)

A breach of the warranty of habitability will typically involve any one or more of the following conditions:

1. Lack of hot or cold running water, or poor water pressure.
2. Lack of or inadequate heat during cold months.
3. Presence of vermin or insect infestation.
4. Serious problems with any plumbing facility.
5. Serious problems with any electrical facility.
6. Inadequate provisions for garbage removal.
7. Unsafe structural defects deteriorating stairways, holes in walls or floors, etc.

8. Failure to maintain common areas in a sanitary manner.

9. Defective water-proofing and weather protection (roofs, exterior walls and unbroken windows and doors).

It must be completely understood that there are many, many other conditions or violations of the conditions listed above that may breach the warranty of habitability. These can be dealt with on a case-by-case basis only.

It is mandatory that the tenant first inform the landlord of the existence of any condition thought to breach the warranty. Written notice is always better than oral notice, especially if your case goes to trial.

Tenants should contact Municipal Housing Code Enforcement authorities and local Tenant Unions or organizations to help determine whether or not a serious problem exists in the apartment. Neighborhood Legal Service Offices are also available to tenants who qualify.

UNDER NO CIRCUMSTANCES SHOULD A TENANT WITHHOLD RENT PAYMENTS WITHOUT FIRST SEEKING ADVICE FROM A KNOWLEDGEABLE ORGANIZATION!!!

In Oakland, tenants with housing problems can contact the Free Legal Aid and Education office at the Oakland Community Learning Center, 6118 E. 14th Street, or call (415) 633-2062.

The Spencers now receive a Black police escort at all times, in addition to the 24-hour watchfulness of a "Black presence" guard at their home.

The White racist ROAR organization has not limited its fascist harassment and intimidation to Blacks. Whites in the neighborhood who have shown sympathy or support for the Spencers have received open threats of the first bombing of their homes and phone calls from ROAR members. One White resident who said his home to a Black family was informed by ROAR that his new neighbors in the community to which he had moved had been informed and warned against these "nigger lovers."

The leader of ROAR is Mike Biggle, who lives about a block from the Spencers. He was acquitted of the bomb-bombing charges despite clear evidence indicating his involvement. ROAR organized a mass campaign for his defense, hiring the same attorney that defended the White New York City policeman last year charged with the murder of 15-year-old Clifford Glover, the Black youth who was shot to death.

OLD-ROCK SINGER BOB DYLAN JOINS LIST OF ROBIN CARTER SUPPORTERS

'AFTER THE HURRICANE, THERE IS NO MORE'

Famed folk-rock singer Bob Dylan is the latest personality joining an ever-increasing list of supporters of Robin "Hurricane" Carter. Dylan has recorded a new album containing a selection dedicated to Carter. Although Columbia Records is attempting to postpone the release of the album, Dylan wants it released as quickly as possible, with wide distribution, in order to rally support for "the Hurricane."

Carter has been incarcerated since 1966 after being falsely convicted with co-defendant John Artis of the shotgun slaying of three White men in Paterson, New Jersey. Carter and Artis are being held in New Jersey prisons despite the fact the two prosecution lawyers have admitted their testimony, stating that they were coerced by the prosecution.

THE BLACK PANTHER is reprinting a Penthouse magazine interview with Carter. Part 7 of this interview follows as Robin "Hurricane" Carter continues his penetrating and shocking exposure on prison life.

PART 7

Q: The boy hanged himself?
CARTER: He allegedly hanged himself - put it that way. Because nobody ever knows. But the depressions are real, you know. You see guys staying in cells all day or all night long and they don't get any mail from their families. And they're facing 100,000 years with no hope of any kind. When you break hope in a man that man is dead. The average age in this prison is about twenty-three years, and the majority of them are doing life-time terms. But they come here and they want to hang out.

You can get all the dope you want in this jail—so they stick dope in their arms, drink whiskey, and try all kinds of other foolishness, just to escape. But when they wake up in the morning they're still here. Later, when they go out into the streets and have to rise or fall on their own merit, they find themselves totally at a loss, some are physically fit but mentally destroyed. They find it easy to remain shadows in jail than to live as responsible human beings on the street. That is the crowning achievement of all these prisons.

Q: The administration knows all this is going on?

CARTER: Sure.

ROBIN "Hurricane" CARTER is now under incarceration at Trenton State Prison, but support for his case is steadily gaining nationally, as he tries to appeal his unjust conviction.

Q: Does the prison administration consciously encourage homosexuality?

CARTER: Oh, yes. Anything that would strip a man of his masculinity—of any type or form of masculinity. It has only been recently here, about two years I would say, that they allowed men to wear mustaches and beards.

Gays come into jail and they live under this painful provocation for years, they live with the brutality they live with being killed constantly. And when they walk out of this prison they are very suspicious people. I see guys come in here with a two-to-three-year sentence for breaking and entering, and when they walk out that does I know they are going to kill somebody.

Everyone knows what is happening in this prison. Everyone knows where all the dope is coming in at—who is bringing it. Everyone knows who are the police bringing the knives in. You know that. But this administration—is eager to keep the war going on, on paper, in order to keep the taxes rising, in order to milk the public out of more money—says the prisoners' families are bringing it in, my wife is bringing it in, my daughter is bringing it in.

Q: Aren't there any investigations into this activity?

CARTER: Yes. From the time that I arrived at Trenton State Prison in September of last year, there have been no less than ten suits filed in federal courts about the brutality that is going on here. A newspaper reporter named John Telf from the Trentonian, a newspaper here in Trenton, worked undercover in this prison as a guard for about seven months. Then he quit and wrote a series of articles exposing all of the brutalities that were taking place and all of the guards who were deliberately committing them. But his paper is just a tiny paper, and it doesn't go any further than Trenton. So no other communities in New Jersey know about this exposure or anything else. If it had been a national paper, it would have torn this place down.

Yes, there are suits and investigations going on here. But the administration is investigating itself. The politicians that control these prisons are investigating themselves. And you know that nothing is ever going to come out of that. There is no accountability here—just exactly like there's no accountability in the street where you are. And we know that accountability is the cornerstone of any democracy. We have no accountability here, and you have no accountability out there, so we have no democracy. We're all living under false pretenses.

"A new page was turned in the relations between China and the United States with President Nixon's visit to China and the issuance of the Shanghai Communiqué by our two sides in 1972. On the whole, Sino-U.S. relations have moved forward in the last few years. China and the United States have different social systems and there are essential differences between their polities.

"However, in the current turbulent world situation, our two sides have common points as well. This has been set forth clearly in the Shanghai Communiqué. So long as our two sides earnestly observe in actual practice the principles established in the Shanghai Communiqué, there is reason to believe that Sino-U.S. relations will continue to move ahead. This is the common desire of the Chinese and American peoples. On the Chinese side, we will do our part to promote Sino-U.S. relations in the spirit of the Shanghai Communiqué, as we have done all along."

While many of them are scattered on isolated bases, the concentration in Japan — both the main island and on Okinawa — is high. For over five years the G.I. ments and informed them that if they did not soften their stance toward Israel in the current Arab-Israeli quarrel, their Black Americans would see to it that U.S. economic aid to Africa was terminated.

One hardly knows whether the proper response is to laugh or to cry.

Laughter seems appropriate because the most unsophisticated of the Africans certainly know that American Blacks have no more power to turn off foreign aid than they have to turn it on.

Indeed, our very powerlessness at the State Department is itself a major tragedy — one which was dwelt on at length last weekend at the workshop and dinner of the Congressional Black Caucus.

I was privileged to share, with the Foreign Minister of Jamaica, the leadership of a panel on the "Black State in Global Interdependence" and this powerlessness was the theme of the Foreign Minister's opening remarks and was a recurring theme throughout the day.

Crying is likely to be the stronger response, however, for not only do BASIC's critics highlight our powerlessness — they also risk confusing both ourselves and the rest of the world.

Although Black Americans do not have the power to turn the foreign aid spigot off, the Israeli lobby may indeed have such power.

It would be absolutely calamitous if this were to happen and to be misinterpreted as being the result of Black power for a double disaster would have been rendered. We would have alienated ourselves from Black Africa, and we would have created the erroneous impression that we could influence the State Department, thus raising expectations which we could never fulfill.

One can only speculate as to whether the real purpose of this affair is merely to create the illusion of widespread support for Israel within the Black community, or if there is a more sinister plot afoot.

This would not be the first time that anti-Black forces have made deliberate attempts to drive a wedge between Africans and American Blacks and one must assume that that may be the hidden agenda of BASIC.

It is of course the supreme irony that when a Black American lobby on Africa was finally formed, it turned out to be a lobby against, rather than one for Africa.

In every Black community across the nation Black people should be asking themselves and their leaders why it is that the Israelis have found it so easy to organize Black spokesmen for the purpose of sending threats to Africa, whereas Black leadership has found it impossible to put together an effective and credible lobby in support of Africa.

Only when we begin to hold our Black leadership responsible for their actions and for their omission can we expect to see the beginnings of real change in our situation.

Leadership which can be bought is worse than no leadership at all.

Angola Prison Stalls On Improvements

the perfect time to ignore the prison population.

The federal Eastern District Court decision in favor of sweeping changes at the prison has been dismissed by some state officials as "too liberal." Perhaps it was the court's declaration that Angola was "shocking to the human conscience, and cruel and unusual . . ." that caused prison officials to conduct their prison reform program.

In closing their letter, the inmates describe the situation at Angola as "terrible, the frustration, loneliness and temporary shelter as a direct consequence of the extensive intimidation, dispersion and running rampant throughout the institution."

This is a perilous predicament, a dangerous state of existence that must be eradicated and lives protected against such preposterous encroachments. Prisoners must be protected as well as the staff that works amidst the huge prisoner population. Every means this situation must be circumvented.

"Obviously someone doesn't know the price of playing with such odds, such potentially dangerous and explosive ingredients. Life is permanent and must not be squandered by such inhumanities. It is our duty to fight with the institution of Angola at the very moment."
